In addition to the registered Care Manager the home employs a number of registered general nurses as well as enrolled nurses, care assistants, cooks, kitchen assistants, domestic staff, laundry persons and a maintenance person.

Chiropody and foot care are provided to all residents under the NHS. All staff are trained in their respective duties and provide services according to the home philosophy and values. The residents will be cared for by qualified staffs that are committed to on-going training to enhance/improve high quality level of care. At Westcroft we will ensure that the home is adequately staffed at all times by staffs that are deemed responsible and competent in this role.

Organisational Structure

Age, sex and needs of Service Users

Westcroft is a mixed sex home and has facilities to look after elderly people, including married couples or partners, who because of their physical incapacity require help with daily living. Westcroft is registered to provide care to long and short stay elderly people. We enable older people to continue living as independently as possible by providing care and support consistent with their incapacities and disabilities. Several of our clients and most new ones require higher levels of care and support than we had originally planned. We have responded to these changes by improving our material and staffing provisions, without losing sight of our original aim. The home firmly believes that it should only accept a new service user if a needs assessment shows that the home can adequately meet those needs.

Provision of nursing care

Westcroft is a registered nursing care provider 24 hours a day. This is carried out by highly trained nurses who are fully committed to their own learning and development needs. Other staffs are working towards their NVQ's with the aim of having at least 50% of our care staff with an NVQ qualification at all times. A registered general nurse directs the care on each shift.

Review of care plans

The care manager, after consultation with the client, prepares a written plan as to how the client needs in respect of his/her health & safety are to be met. The plan is available to the clients to see if he/she wishes to do so. His/her plan is kept under on-going review and any changes made accordingly, with their consultation.

Service user property

All personal possessions of clients will be treated with respect. The clients can bring any personal furnishings/furniture into the room they are to occupy. Any monies kept on request of client will be kept and stored in safe/secure place, and all relevant documentation completed. The clients clothing will be washed and ironed on premises. Furthermore, they will always have a choice for alternative arrangements to suit their individual's needs.

Availability of social and leisure activities

Our aim is to provide a safe, manageable and comfortable environment which provides stimulation, offering a choice and encouragement to clients pursue their lives to their maximum, physical, emotional and social capacity. We provide access to a wide range of social activities. We also support our clients in developing an interest on activities not currently available.

Our activity co-ordinator considers the needs, and wishes of each client. Hobbies and interests are actively encouraged and personally supervised by staffs who understand their importance to clients. Arrangements of a variety of social activities and local outings using appropriate transport are organised.

Consulting service users about the operation of the care home

The home has in place an effective quality assurance system with the aim of seeking the views of clients. Through this system the home is able to measure its success in meeting the aims, objectives and statement of purpose. Feedback and thought are actively sought from service users through daily individual discussions as well as through satisfaction questionnaires.

An informed audit of services provided will take regularly and the results will be available to clients and their representatives as well as other interested parties including the C.Q.C. Service users are also informed about planned C.Q.C. inspections and their views are made available in inspection reports.

Religious needs

There is no regular visiting priest or chaplain but visits can be arranged at the request of the client. They are encouraged to attend any religious ceremony of their choice or a local church service.

Visiting

We have a policy on maintaining close community contact at the home. We believe having regular contact with the family, friends and the wider community outside the home is a crucial part of living a fulfilled and healthy life. We provide ample opportunity for our clients to develop and maintain such outside contacts if desired. We operate an open visiting policy in the home and relations and friends are actively encouraged to visit the service user and contribute to their care.

Privacy and dignity

The homes philosophy of care is based on the ones which ensure that all service users are treated with respect, and that their dignity is preserved at all times. Their right to privacy is always observed. To retain their privacy we provide help in intimate situations as directly as possible. They are also helped to furnish and equip their rooms in their own style and to use them as much as they wish for leisure, meals and entertaining. There is a range of locations around the home for service users to be alone as opening and reading post. The manager ensures all confidential information the home holds about service users is maintained.

To retain service user's dignity we treat each of them as a special and valued individual. The choice of clothing as well as their personal appearance is considered. We also have in place a variety of activities, which enable each service user to express himself or herself as a unique individual.

Fees

Our fees depend on the care required on an individual basis and can be discussed with the Care Manager.
